

SHORT BIO

Geoffrey has been presenting to audiences large and small, from 700+ business leaders drawn from across industry to intimate gatherings of 20 professionals in the energy industry. His engaging style and sense of humour, combined with his depth of experience from 30 years in the energy industry and most recently with digital technologies, will move your audience to action. He has several ready-to-go presentations on such topics as blockchain, digital innovations in oil and gas, and the future of work, however, he can also create brand new and bespoke presentations on the these and emerging topics based on your needs.